Charley Pride: I'm Just Me

Charley Pride stands as a symbol of hope and an example of the ways music can influence societal change. He arrived in Nashville in 1963, a year in which the Tennessee capital was the site of sit-ins and racial violence. Two years later, he was a recording artist on a major label, and in short time he became a superstar whose path would lead him to a Grammy Lifetime Achievement Award and a place in the Country Music Hall of Fame. Charley Pride's story is a lesson in the ways that art and expression can triumph over prejudice and defeat injustice. Raised as less than a citizen in brutally segregated Mississippi, Charley Pride's buttery voice and steely resolve helped him to a place as one of the world's most impactful musical artists. 1x78 HD

N. SCOTT MOMADAY WORDS FROM A BEAR

Momaday: Words from a Bear examines the enigmatic life and mind of Pulitzer Prize-winning writer Navarro Scott Momaday, one of Native America's most celebrated authors of poetry and prose. Cinematically this story takes audiences on a spiritual journey through the expansive landscapes of the West, when Momaday's Kiowa ancestors roamed the Great Plains with herds of buffalo, to the sand-painted valleys of Jemez Pueblo, New Mexico where his imagination ripened and he showed superior writing skills as a young mission student. The film gives a thorough survey of Momaday's most prolific years as a doctorate fellow at Stanford University, his achievement of the Pulitzer Prize for Literature in 1969, and his later works that solidified his place as the founding member of the "Native American Renaissance" in art and literature, influencing a generation of Native American artists, scholars and political activists. Although his unique heritage is a central theme, Momaday's work asks the questions every audience can relate to: what are our origins and how do we connect to them through our collective memories? The film reveals intimate details of the writer's personal life through his literary texts, along with the trials and tribulations he faced as a Native American artist. 1x90 HD

COLLEGE BEHIND BARS
 A FILM BY LYNN NOVICK

College Behind Bars tells the story of a small group of incarcerated men and women in New York State as they struggle to earn degrees in one of the most rigorous, and most successful, liberal arts colleges operating behind bars—the Bard Prison Initiative (BPI). The film illuminates the fundamental relationship between incarceration and education and puts a human face on America's criminal justice crisis. Through the lives of the student-inmates the filmmakers have been following over several years of production—most of whom didn't graduate from high school and are poor, black or Hispanic—the film raises questions we all urgently need to address: What is prison for? Do inmates deserve an education, especially when it is beyond the financial reach of many law-abiding citizens? Who among us has access to educational opportunity? Can we have justice without redemption? 2x60, 4x60 HD

HISTORY

THE FEUD

The feud between the Hatfields and McCoys is perhaps the most famous family conflict in American history. As legend has it, two neighboring families in the backwoods of Appalachia waged a crude and bloody war against each other over a stolen hog, an illicit romance, and longstanding grudges. Once it started, there was nothing to stop the spiral of murder: no social mores against violence, no legal or political institutions in control, no personal religious values holding people back. Yet as this program reveals, the legend belies the truth. Both the Hatfields and McCoys were entrepreneurs seeking to climb up from hardship after fierce economic competition and rapid technological change had turned their lives upside down. When members of both families took their grievances to court, their dispute grew into a struggle between two states. Far from an isolated story of mountain lust and violence between “hillbillies,” the Hatfield-McCoy feud was a microcosm of the tensions inherent in the nation’s rapid industrialization after the Civil War. 1x60 HD

Bonnie & Clyde

Bonnie Parker and Clyde Barrow were the most famous criminal couple in U.S. history. During the height of the Great Depression, their gang evolved from petty thieves to nationally known bank robbers and murderers, joining the ranks of other gangsters of the era like John Dillinger, Pretty Boy Floyd and Baby Face Nelson—so called “public enemies” who captured the imagination of Americans laid low by the Depression. Gorongosa National Park in Mozambique has become one of Africa's most celebrated wildlife restoration stories. After a decade of renewed protection, Gorongosa's large mammal population has increased 10-fold, to over 100,000 animals. By bringing large-scale, long-term health care, agriculture support, and girls' education to surrounding communities, Gorongosa is becoming a new model for other Protected Areas in Africa. In doing so, they hope the park will survive the 21st century, as Africa's population increases from 1.2 to 4 billion people. Since prehistoric times, there has been a place in the Serengeti where giraffes are permanent residents. They now share their grounds with the local impalas, Thomson's gazelles and Grant's gazelles. These new inhabitants live in constant danger from predators such as cheetahs, leopards, lions and hyenas, but adult giraffes are relatively safe. The giraffes' offspring, however, are not as lucky. Mama Twiga in the Garden of Eden tells the emotional story of a mother giraffe, Mama Twiga, and the struggles of young giraffes and gazelles as they take on the risks of growing in the wilds of Swahili. 1x50 HD

Your Inner Fish

This three-part series reveals a startling truth: Hidden within the human body is a story of life on Earth. That's because the evolution of humans can be traced into the distant past, to the earliest forms of vertebrate life on land and even to the earliest forms of life on Earth. Each of us carries the genetic imprint of creatures that lived hundreds of millions of years ago. 3x60 HD

Can Alzheimer's Be Stopped?

Alzheimer's disease strikes at the core of what makes us human: our capacity to think, to love, and to remember. The disease ravages the minds of over 40 million victims worldwide, and it is one of the greatest medical mysteries of our time. Join investigators as they gather clues and attempt to reconstruct the molecular chain of events that ultimately leads to dementia, follow key researchers in the field who have helped to develop the leading theories of the disease, and meet the researchers testing therapies that may slow and even prevent Alzheimer's. 1x60 HD

Mass Extinction: Life at the Brink

Mass Extinction: Life at the Brink joins scientists around the globe as they unravel the mysteries of two of the most dramatic mass extinctions—the "K/T Extinction" that wiped out the dinosaurs, and "The Great Dying," which obliterated nearly 90% of all Earth's species. As different as they seem, these two extinctions share uncanny similarities and a message for today. Could the impact of human beings be just as devastating to the planet as a massive asteroid strike or volcanic eruptions? 1x60 HD

Spillover: Zika, Ebola & Beyond

Saving the Dead Sea

There's no place on Earth like it. Cleopatra attributed her beauty to its secrets and King Herod built one of the world's first health spas on its shores. Now this wonder of the world is dying. Since 1976, its level has declined by more than 65 feet. Its coastline is pockmarked with thousands of sinkholes. Can the Dead Sea be saved? After more than a decade of research and debate, scientists, engineers and political leaders have come up with a daring plan, one that could not only save the sea but help bring stability to a region rife with conflict. NOVA follows this unprecedented endeavor as scientists and engineers race to save the Dead Sea and help bring water to one of the driest regions on Earth. 1x54 HD

Something In The Air

Pollution is killing tens of thousands of people every day around the world. Cities across Asia and Europe have had to shut down and stop traffic to manage "Airpocalypse" pollution events when the air is unsafe for the people who live there. But air pollution is a major killer everywhere, even places we think of as safe. Pollution causes a range of respiratory diseases, and even short exposure can change how our DNA functions. New science is finding that microscopic bits of air pollution may be able to travel from your nose directly into your brain, and could be causing dementia in humans. How unsafe is the pollution we can't even see? Something in the Air explores these and other questions about the most precious resource we have—air. 1x52 HD

NOVA tells the in-depth story of Apollo's riskiest mission: a sixteen-week race to beat the Soviets and send three men in a tiny space capsule to, around and back from a moon a quarter of a million miles away—before 1968 came to a close. To mark the 50th anniversary of this historic mission, Apollo 8's astronauts, Commander Frank Borman, Command Module Pilot James Lovell and Lunar Module Pilot William Anders reconvene and tell the story through a fascinating and untapped prism: the incredible science, extraordinary engineering feats and huge technological challenges that enabled them to go where no one had ever gone before. 1x54 HD

Rise of the Rockets

We may be witnessing the dawn of a bold new era of human activity in space for science and exploration—but also for profit. An explosion of private companies is sparking the development of new technologies and lowering costs to bring space closer than ever. And at the same time, NASA is returning to crewed spaceflight with gusto, building a rocket more powerful even than the storied Saturn V to take us far beyond Earth. But this is not the first time we've seen signs of a rocketry renaissance. In the 1980s, there was a boom—and bust—in the privatization of space travel. Will today's optimism about companies like SpaceX and Virgin Galactic prove prescient, or nothing more than hype and wishful thinking? 1x54 HD

Dozens of startups have sprung up alongside established auto and tech giants—who are also testing the waters—to form what many hope will be a transformative new industry. As ambitious innovators are rushing to cash in on what they see as high tech's next pot of gold, some experts warn there are still daunting challenges to overcome, such as how to train computers to make life-and-death decisions as well as humans can. NOVA peers under the hood of the autonomous vehicle industry to investigate how exactly driverless cars work, how they may change the way we live, and whether we will ever be able to entrust them with our lives. 1x60 HD

In addition, experts from MIT, Cambridge Mobile Telematics, Safety Track and the University of Connecticut provided monitoring equipment, data storage and expert analysis. Distracted While Driving gives audiences a firsthand look at emerging technologies that could one day offer solutions to rising crash statistics, featuring research being done at Google on next-generation in-car infotainment systems, and a Swedish-based company developing technology that could one day allow cars to understand our feelings and make driving decisions based on our own individual needs. 1x54 HD

Pluto and Beyond

When the New Horizons space craft whizzed by Pluto in 2015, onlookers were dazzled by the breathtaking images it beamed home. They revealed a never before seen alien landscape—a world of mountains made of ice mixed with plains of frozen-solid methane and nitrogen. And now, New Horizons is at it again, this time Pluto and Beyond. In 2019, the craft flew an object known now as MU69, which is believed to be a primordial building block of the solar system. The Next Pompeii

Could a massive volcanic eruption devastate a major Italian city? Few of today's inhabitants of nearby Naples realize the existence of another volcano right under their feet. In fact, the city's suburbs and outlying towns are home to over half a million people, who live inside the giant collapsed crater of an ancient supervolcano. Its last major eruption killed 6,000 people in 1631. Now, a team of geologists has found evidence that a huge volume of magma is stirring beneath the surface of the crater and could break through the crust in the near future, triggering an explosive eruption that could kill millions.

DECODING DA VINCI

How was Leonardo da Vinci able to think so far “outside the box” that he envisaged developments in engineering, astronomy, and anatomy that were only realized centuries later? The list of Leonardo's “firsts” is astonishing: he asserted that “the sun does not move” more than a generation before Copernicus; he reasoned that fatty deposits in narrowed arteries were caused by an unhealthy diet; he drew the first designs for a parachute, armored car, machine gun, diving suit, helicopter, and a flying machine that anticipates the modern hang glider, not to mention history's first humanoid robot. Leonardo's inventions and insights have come down to us through his notebooks, each page packed with a profusion of ingenious ideas and breathtaking drawings but revealing little about his personal life or character. As a result, the man behind the Mona Lisa and a host of futuristic inventions remains a shadowy figure. Now, NOVA joins Walter Isaacson, author of the acclaimed recent biography, on a journey to Italy to explore the impact of Leonardo's art on his science and his science on his art. The program is a compelling portrait of the original “Renaissance man.” 1x60 HD

Dead Sea Scroll Detectives

The Dead Sea Scrolls are one of the greatest archeological finds of all time. First discovered in a cave by a Bedouin shepherd boy in 1947, these fragile parchment relics were written around the time of Christ two millennia ago and include the oldest known versions of the Hebrew Bible. They not only reveal that early Judaism was far richer and more varied than previously thought, but also hold vital clues to the birth of Christianity. But who compiled them and do more scrolls await discovery? While certain scrolls have survived intact, others have been ravaged by time—burnt, decayed, or torn into pieces—and remain an enigma. Now, scientists are using new technologies to read the unreadable, solve mysteries that have endured for millennia, and even discover million-dollar fakes! Discover where science and scripture converge, on NOVA's Dead Sea Scroll Detectives. 1x60 HD
